Lorient Interceltic Festival

This annual event brings together more or less 700 000 visitors and hundreds of artists. As such, it is the largest festival in France. It is also one of the longest, as it lasts for ten days. Throughout the town, the "official" Festival and the "fringe" live together in perfect harmony. During the day, a few bagadoù slowly work their way through the town for fun and then compete seriously at the Palais des Congrès in the evening.

While professional dancers express their art under a big top, amateurs kick up an improvised gavotte... The crowd grows, the music swells.

That's the Festival ! More informations :
